

LINO TAGLIAPIETRA

FEBRUARY 2021

Can you believe that it's already the end of February? This month flew by. The Maestro's limited edition hand-signed blu-ray + murrina package were a major hit in last month's newsletter and there are only a handful remaining. If you're interested, make sure to check them out via the link above.

The Maestro has been spending time around Murano, working in the hot shop as well as seeing family. Additionally, Lino has recently spent some time with a few well-known tour guides and fellow artists in the Murano Showroom. We love keeping you up to speed with what the Maestro is doing, and hope to continue to do so! If you have anything more you would like to know or see, please send an email to Nikki Kennedy at marketing@linotagliapietra.com.

Don't forget, we are open and would love to welcome you into the Seattle Showroom. Unable to make it into the city or don't live in Seattle? No problem! Make sure to check out our Instagram at @LinoTagliapietra to keep up to date!

Seattle Showroom Hours:

Monday – Thursday | 11 AM – 4 PM

Friday | 11 AM – 6 PM

Saturday - Sunday | Closed

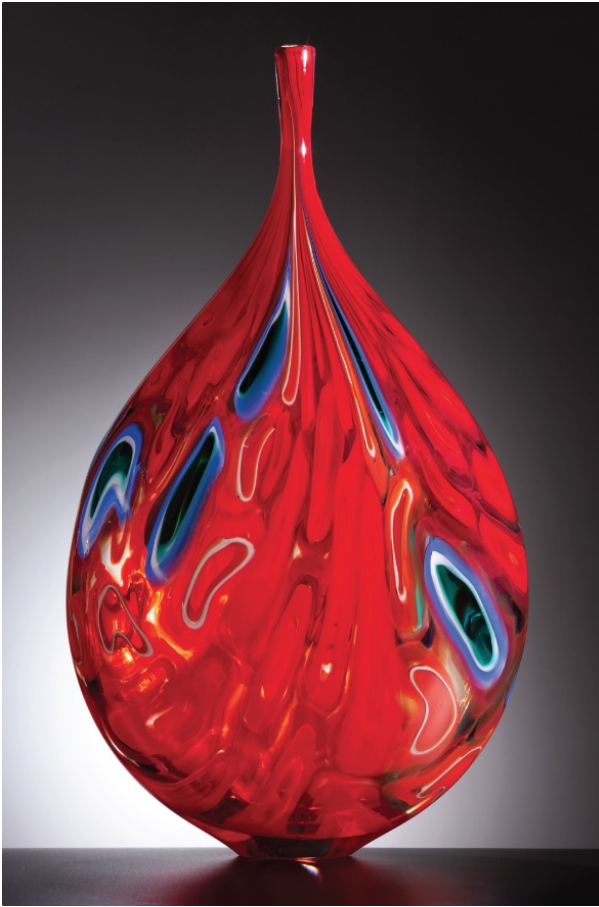

Warm regards,
The Seattle Studio

SERIES FEATURE | AQUILONE

The Aquilone series, an innovation from early 2019, features oval shaped murrina, rather than traditionally square-shaped murrina. This change in style allows for more light to come through the glass and creates “windows” of color through the artwork. The Maestro took inspiration for these murrina from his childhood on the island of Murano. Reminiscing over the colorful kites he and his companions used to fly, he imbued the glass with similarly bold hues and even named the piece after the pastime: “aquilone” means “kite” in Italian. Speaking to his recent innovations in design, the Maestro commented that even with stylistic changes, his expression through glass “is still always me.” Like other works in the Maestro’s oeuvre, the Aquilone’s shape is uncomplicated, and utilizes the simplicity of form to highlight the intricate and colorful design of the glass. This, and the playful translucency of the glass, are themes in Lino's works that have persisted throughout his long career.

CATCH UP WITH THE MAESTRO

Lino has been staying busy in Murano as you can see! In the photos above, the Maestro is photographed with Luisella Romeo, a well know tour guide in Venice, Italy. Romeo recently featured a virtual tour of the Murano Showroom on her website, See Venice.

The Maestro met with Riccardo Bisazza in the Murano Showroom. Bisazza is the President of Orsoni Venezia 1888, the historical Venetian furnace that uses the same traits since 1888 to produce 24K gold leaf mosaics, colored gold, and enamels.
